Taking her best shot
NE10 Conference Woman of the Year
Chelsea Abreu, a leader on the field and in our School of Business
The School completed another exceptional year. We launched an innovative cocurricular program for our undergraduate students that ensures that they are career-ready when they graduate. New curricula, including a master’s degree in professional accounting, were introduced. Our customized internship program continues to deliver impressive outcomes. In the following pages, you can read short snippets of our many accomplishments. From the range of academic programs we offer, to the care and attention we devote to our students, to the many engagements we foster with employers and alumni to recruit our graduates—the Robert B. Willumstad School of Business is fully focused on meeting the talent needs of employers in this region and beyond and preparing responsible and engaged citizens of the world. We are on the move on fleet-footed shoes—as I say “Fast forward!”

Sincerely,
Rajib Sanyal, PhD
Dean

SCHOLARSHIP THAT MATTERS
The Adelphi Business Review showcases some of the recent scholarly works of the faculty. Read them here adelphi.edu/business-review.
The Bender Research Awards are named after James Bender, PhD, founding dean of what is now the Robert B. Willumstad School of Business. He was associated with Adelphi for more than 25 years in various capacities and created a generous endowment to fund the awards. The scholarly works are judged for quality of writing and impact on the discipline.

Soon Ryoo, PhD, associate professor of economics (center in above photo), received the Body of Work Award in recognition of his scholarship over the past three years. He also received an award for Best Paper of the Year. Other winners of the Best Paper award are Darko Skorin-Kapov, PhD, professor of decision sciences and marketing, and Monica Yang, PhD, professor of management and department chair.

GLOBALLY RECOGNIZED FACULTY

Alan Cooper, PhD ’95, MBA ’03, associate dean, spoke at the New York State County Medical Society Conference on “Creating Efficiencies in Member-Driven Organizations.”

Juan Jaramillo, PhD, associate professor of decision sciences, chaired the committee to select the winners of the Innovative Applications in Analytics Award, which was sponsored by Caterpillar and the Analytics Society. He led a panel of eight data scientists that reviewed 24 cutting-edge applications in analytics from multiple countries and organizations. At the INFORMS Business Analytics Conference, the top three winners were announced.

Zachary Johnson, PhD, associate professor of decision sciences and marketing, moderated a panel discussion on discursive design on campus as part of a daylong program on Solving Problems With Discourse and Experimentation. The panelists included Danielle Hyatt ’16 (marketing), senior consultant, IBM, and Elaine Schwartz ’13 (management), MBA ’14, managing consultant, IBM IX. Gita Surie, PhD, professor of management and chair of the department of management, along with Dr. Johnson, was a member of the committee that organized the program.

INDUSTRY CONNECTIONS

Bank Funds Financial Literacy Bootcamp for High School Students

This summer, the School offered a weeklong, hands-on workshop on financial literacy to disadvantaged high school students in the area through a grant from the TD Bank Foundation. Two faculty members, Ganesh Pandit, DBA, associate professor of accounting, and Cem Karatas, DBA, clinical assistant professor of finance, are facilitating this high-impact and socially responsible program.

ENROLLMENT

Enrollment in graduate programs—the MBA and the MS in Supply Chain Management—registered a whopping 47 percent increase between 2013 and now.

THE WORLD IS OUR OYSTER!

Befitting our location in the world’s city that is New York, our student body is truly international, hailing from 58 countries—from Austria to Zimbabwe and 56 places in between! In 10 years, our enrollment of foreign students has jumped nearly 400 percent to more than 450 today. They benefit from a supportive learning environment, language and culture courses, and a relevant curriculum in addition to the many cocurricular opportunities that abound in this vibrant region.

Successful Launch of the Willumstad Winning Edge Program

Six ways we give students an edge on their path to success in business

Students want a business degree that gives them the skills to step into a successful career. The new Winning Edge program at the Robert B. Willumstad School of Business gives students the skills, credentials, connections and hands-on experience they’ll need to get ahead—right here on New York City’s doorstep. It’s unique. Six life-changing reasons make the Willumstad Winning Edge different from any other business undergraduate experience:

1. Career readiness:
   - career exploration,
   - résumé guidance, job shadowing, internships and more

2. Tech credentialing:
   - Microsoft Excel training and certification options

3. Innovative academics
   - with world-class faculty who are business researchers and leaders

4. Learning for leadership
   - with experiential learning to build leadership skills with the Willumstad Leadership Scholar program, New York City cross-cultural experiences and academic clubs

5. Networking opportunities
   - throughout the year with business alumni, faculty, staff and students

6. Personalized education
   - in small classes to nurture student success

MaryAnne Hyland, PhD, associate dean for undergraduate programs and student success, oversees this innovative cocurricular program.
The School launched a Job Shadowing Program that enables students to spend quality time with a business executive or entrepreneur at their workplace observing and learning firsthand the realities of a business environment. Students are carefully matched with managers to ensure a maximum learning experience.

The School placed interns with 238 organizations.

58% of the interns were female.

42% of the interns were male.

The top 10 places where our students interned:

- Merrill Lynch
- PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC)
- GEICO
- BDO
- Ernst & Young (EY)
- Morgan Stanley
- Mazars
- Publishers Clearing House
- Northwell Health
- Canon

The percentage of 2018-2019 graduates with internship experience:

- National Avg.: 38%
- Adelphi University: 80%

This is the number reported to the School; actual numbers are likely higher.

There are currently six mentors for students.
Robert B. Willumstad School of Business

DEDICATION TO THE STUDENT EXPERIENCE

Adding Innovative Programs

The newest innovative programs at the Willumstad School are the MS in Professional Accounting and the MS in Business Analytics. They join other recently added programs of study: the MS in Supply Chain Management and the Global MBA. We have streamlined the MBA program. We have also entered into a partnership with Amity University in India to offer our Global MBA program and the MS in Supply Chain Management programs. The latter program is now classified as a STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics) degree.

Second Annual Business Plan Competition

Five fully developed plans competed for $10,000 in prizes (provided by friends and alumni). First prize was won by Chinrlahoksar, an MBA student, for her proposal, Garden and Garden, a biology graduate student. The two other, a senior in management, and a senior in finance, for their proposal, First Option Sports Book, a platform to enable customers to bet and finalists were the team of Ismael Voltaire, to measure various health metrics of athletes, was won by Melendez, MBA '78, managing partner, 3Pe Consulting; Bailen, MBA '05, and Kevin Held, MBA '05, managing partner, 3Pe Consulting; and Kevin Held, MBA '05, associate dean, Willumstad School of Business.

Curriculum Innovation—Going Global in New York City

During the January Intercession, the School ran an undergraduate International Business course focused on China and set in New York City. The experiential-heavy course combined class sessions at the Manhattan Center with meetings with business executives at Voss Water and J.P. Morgan, attendance at a cultural performance, a visit to the Museum of Chinese in America, and a lunch in Chinatown. Sixteen students participated in the course, which was assisted by six MBA students from China who served as "cultural liaisons." This innovative course is a convenient, low-cost alternative to study abroad that leverages New York City’s numerous economic, business and cultural riches.

International Connections

As in past semesters, Rakesh Gupta, an associate professor of decision sciences, took international students to participate in the “East Meets West” program at Wantagh High School during the fall and spring semesters. The country focus in spring was India. In the fall semester, the country focus was Vietnam.

Three Adelphi students from that country—Manh Hung Vang, Thuc Nhi Le Ba and Thu Thuy Hoang—met with Wantagh High School students in a session on cross-cultural engagement and learning. The high school students in grades 11 and 12 take a yearlong class for college credit.

Rakesh Gupta and Katie Laatikainen, PhD, professor and director of international studies, taught and led a travel course to Finland that focused on Finnish innovation in politics and business. Sixteen students participated—14 undergraduates and two studying for their MBAs.

Student Success Stories

Omolola Brooks (senior, accounting and political science), Justin Dinnanauth, a clinical auditor (senior, management) and Jeannine Thompson '15 (MBA student) earned second place at the 2019 New York State Society for Human Resource Management Case Study Competition, held in Rochester, New York.

A team of three MBA students—Aqeel Alhamaidi, Idrak Hasanzade and Abdulmumin Jaiswal—participated in the Financial Trading Challenge held at Bentley University. Aqeel Alhamaidi won the Best Trading Individual Award and the Adelphi team made the highest profit. Corn Karatas, DBA, clinical assistant professor of finance, coached and accompanied the team.

Ana Ludemann and Devon Neudorf participated in the Beta Gamma Sigma 2018 Global Leadership Summit in Chicago. Canon USA invited 15 Adelphi students to participate in its Women in Leadership Levels Conference at its Melville, New York, headquarters. They spent the day getting a showroom tour, engaging in a panel learning about the personal and career journeys of Canon women, and participating in workshops surrounding career exploration and readiness. The students were Lauren Bury, Elizabeth Duong, Nicole Garcia, Christina Wu, Rachel Foley, Alexandra Sessa, Jasmin Kaur, Julia Rietbroek, Ashlesha Pandit, Tasnim Ahmad, Christina Wu, Elizabeth Duong, Alexandra Sessa, Rachel Foley, Vikiva Persaud, Ashley DeSena, Lauren Bury and Nicole Garcia. Laura Riker, career services specialist, accompanied the students.

Several students in lecturer in management Laura Messano’s classes participated in the University’s Research Day, where they presented on a variety of topics. The students and the topics are Zeona Walker-Latney, Ida Vasili, Sierra Lyerly and Mimi Ozodiade (“What’s in your makeup?”), Mfat Navede and Hifza Haider (“Have We Reached Full Employment?”), Ahmad Butt and Antonino Rodriguez (“Epidermolysis Bullosa”), Hope Lee, Rose Kaur, Tal Zanco and Mark Alex (“High-End Fashion/Sneakers Reselling Industry: How has reselling impacted the industry and the youth?”). Vanely Chavez (“Autism and the Effects of Communication”), and Chase Morley, Jack Silverman and Devin Kennedy (“Stress Levels in Relation to Student Athletes”). Morley, Silverman and Kennedy are members of the University’s lacrosse team.

Networking Event Organized by Accounting Society

The Accounting Society organized its annual networking event, which saw 56 professionals and 22 firms in attendance, along with 66 students and faculty of the department. The student organization is advised by Arthur Leibowitz, CPA, clinical associate professor of accounting and law, and Grace Conway, CPA, associate professor and department chair, accounting and law. In the spring semester, the annual Volleyball Networking event was organized, which brought in teams from 18 different firms to compete with the accounting students.

Heads Up

Today, many of us are in a perennial bowing stature, head down, poring over our smartphones and watches, oblivious to the world around us. Judy Greiner, an administrative assistant in the School, created the #HeadsUpAdelphi challenge, exhorting students, faculty and staff to pledge to stay off their cell phones for one hour per day and make a human connection instead. They are urged to challenge friends at schools around the world to do the same. Pledgees hold an “I UNPLUGG’D ___” sign and tag @headsupadelphi on Instagram. I invite you to participate!

High-Impact Learning

More and more of our courses are incorporating hands-on experience with area businesses, bringing real-world projects into the classroom. Stelios Karakonstantis ’10 (second from the left, with some of our MBA students), founder and CEO of Shredcore, a physical fitness gym, worked with Fan Liu, PhD (second from right), assistant professor of marketing, in two of her marketing research courses. You can read about it here.
